The Aviator Luxury Apartment Community Opens Near Henderson Executive Airport

HENDERSON, Nev. – WestCorp Management Group, in its ongoing partnership with Nevada West Development, has opened The Aviator, a 380-unit luxury apartment community in West Henderson at 3660 St. Rose Parkway near the Henderson Executive Airport.

One of Henderson’s most uniquely designed apartment communities, The Aviator is inspired by antique airplane designs, with a clubhouse that includes authentic pieces from World War II aircraft throughout the community clubhouse and main entrance. The clubhouse features airplane cabin style lights that line the floors and walls and authentic aircraft metal siding and windows in the furniture. A vintage WWII propeller highlights The Aviator’s entrance sign.

“This design was a nod to our country’s history and to the community’s proximity to Henderson Executive Airport,” said Emily McCann, vice president of marketing for WestCorp Management Group. “Henderson is growing exponentially with its new business opportunities, including the Raiders new practice facility and the anticipated Amazon distribution center. This is a perfect location for new businesses and young professionals to thrive.”

The Aviator has one-, two- and three-bedroom units ranging from 836 to 1,898 square feet with leases starting at $1,199 per month. Each unit offers a modern way of living with quartz countertops, stainless-steel and energy-efficient appliances, wood-style flooring, walk-in closets, in-home washer and dryer and Sky Suite opportunities. The Aviator is WestCorp’s second community to offer Sky Suites, which are top-floor units that feature 12-foot coffered ceilings, 9-foot doors with Transom windows and three-panel glass slider walls in the living room.

The Aviator is part of WestCorp’s line of Vivint Smart Home living spaces throughout Henderson. WestCorp opened and manages three other apartment communities equipped with Vivint Smart Home technology in every unit, including Revolution, Trend! and Empire.
